

I'm supporting Mumbai Indians: Sanjay Dutt

Sanjay Dutt, who featured on Extraaa Innings T20 show on Max, says he is pitching for the Mumbai Indians team in the ongoing Indian Premier League (IPL) cricket tournament.

"I'm a Mumbai boy so I'm supporting Mumbai Indians," said Sanjay outside the studio at the Film City. He appeared on the show in his unique Game Master avatar that he has donned for the new Pepsi ad. "Fantastic experience to be right here in the studio. I do follow a lot of cricket not only now, ever since I was small. I love cricket," he added.

Asked how prepared was he to talk cricket on the show, he said, "Today, I didn't get much to talk about cricket, but if god wishes I would be sitting there as guest and talking about cricket."

Sanjay has teamed up with Ranbir Kapoor in the new interactive ad, The Game and says he enjoys working with the young actor. "I didn't shoot much with Ranbir as yet. Ranbir is like my younger brother. I loved to see him on the set with me. I have seen him growing and today I am working with him. It's fantastic," said Sanjay.

He also said that he maintains a good rapport with the Kapoor family. "Our families are close to each other since Rajji (Raj Kapoor). My mother had worked in RK Films for many, many years... for so many films. So the bonding in family came right from there and it has continued for so many generations now."

Asked about the secret behind his weight loss, he said, "I'm following the no salt and no carbohydrate diet. I want to get back in shape now."
