

MAIL TODAY

Stubble and tattoo add to Ranbir's new gaming look

RANBIR Kapoor has acquired a new look — which he calls the “gaming look” — for a Pepsi commercial. Taking his youngstaan image a little forward, Ranbir has tried to look funky for the ad, which is based on ‘The Game’ theme.

Sources say the concept required Ranbir to look active and uber cool, unlike a serious action hero. So his stylist came up with the trend-setting gaming-hero image.

To complete the look, the actor sports a dragon tattoo on his left arm and the same appears on his costume and neck-piece.

He also has a two-day stubble and a mop of hair falling on his forehead, representing a carefree and confident attitude.

Ranbir had earlier played a game developer in Bachna Ae Haseeno and was shown as a gaming fan in Wake Up Sid. With the new look, he seems to have taken his love for gaming to the next level — by becoming a game character himself!

The Pepsi commercial will feature Sanjay Dutt too, who will be ‘gaming’ along with Ranbir. The duo shot the ad a few days ago after Ranbir returned from the US shoot of Anjaana Anjaani.

We heard that Sanjay, after getting to know about Ranbir's new look, decided to spend some more time in the gym to look fitter. He will himself have an interesting look as the ‘game master’.

Ranbir, being a friendly person, bonded instantly with Sanjay, with whom he was shooting for the first time. The two were reportedly quite professional while shooting.

The actor said: “I was so amazed by what we were doing! Of course, I got the opportunity to work with the great Mr Sanjay Dutt. I think he added a lot of dignity to ‘The Game’, which is a fantastic concept.”

